Everybody in Europe, from Royalty Down, Anxious for a Look at the Great Financier.

Kings and merchant princes and nations are marveling at the ability of America to give and pay for the large orders recently executed in Europe. American individual ability and American power in the money market have been personified in the person of Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan, the most observed and talked about person in Europe for several weeks. His coming was heralded by the news of his successful formation of the $1,000,000,000 steel trust. He stopped a panie in the stock ex-

At Windsor the king con- The Spaniards call them gusanos. fessed his curiosity to see the "great reorganizer" and hoped he would not take a fancy to England's historic palace on the Thames and buy it. At Paris a mob thronged the square about the Gare due Nord when it was learned that Morgan was to leave on the Calais-London Rapide. When he appeared at the station the crowd saw a distinguished-looking man above the middle height, with a gray mustache and hair, in a light gray business suit and raglan, and with the resette of the Legion of Honor in his buttonhole. There was a curt nod to the reporters who tried to get a word with him, and the "Atlantic Transport King," "Steel Magnate" and "Great Reorganizer" was gone.

HUNTING EXPEDITION.

Organized by Arizona's Game Warden for the Purpose of Exterminating Mountain Lions,

John McCarty, territorial game warden of Arizona, has left Phoenix at the head of a party, equipped for a big roundup of California lions in the San Francisco mountains, about 150 miles north of Flagstaff.

In that country the big cats are to wasps. be found in larger numbers than in any other locality in Arizona, and the party expects to bag several hundred Rev. Father Cook has written an interof them. At one time the California lion was to be found in all parts of Arizona, but large territorial and county bounties have caused his extermination in many places. Many thousand dollars have been paid by each county for lion scalps, and at $20 per head hunters have found it profit able business, some of them in times past killing a score of lions in a week's time, and a total of over $100,000 has been paid in Arizona for scalps in the last ten years. Hundreds of lions, though, have been shot by cattle, horse and sheep men who have not claimed the bounties, taking as their rewards the fact that they have disposed of the cause of the slaughter of their calves. colts and lambs.

While the lions have grown less common in the southern part of the territory, there has been no perceptible decrease in their numbers in the wilder northern regions. Sheepmen in the San Francisco mountains have complained of late that the lions are killing off their lambs in such numbers that their raids were proving ruinous to the sheep industry. Warden Mc Carty has taken the matter in hand and organized the hunting party.

QUEER INSECT MENU.

Ants, Grasshoppers and Worms That Are Good to Eat.

French Naturalist Thinks They Would Be Considered Dainties If We Could Only Overcome the Prejudice of Ages.

M. Daguin, a distinguished French naturalist, calls attention to the fact that insects are among the most wholesome and harmless of creatures to eat, because they live almost exclusively on vegetable food. He condemns crustaceans, headed by the lobster, because they live upon dead things.

M. Daguin is so impressed by the value of good insects as food, says the Chicago American, that he has compiled a book on the subject, telling about the ancient and modern races who have fattened themselves on these humble creatures.

A great many savage races to-day regard insects as a great delicacy, and quite a number of individuals in Europe have taken the same view. Dr. Gastier, a distinguished deputy, delighted to eat May bugs, which he skinned like shrimps. When spring came one could not make him a more welcome present than a box of live May bugs. It seems that from time immemorial the insects of the coleoptera family have been greatly relished. Aelianus remarks that "the king of the Indians does not eat the fruit of the palm tree like Greeks, but he regales himself on a worm that grows in the interior of the tree.'

This worm, well known to naturalists, is the grub of a sort of weevil. It is white, very fat and grows about three inches long. It is still eaten in bought up a controlling interest in India, where it is known as the palm worm.

The same worm is found in the West Indies, and, according to the naturalist, Labat, it is considered a great delicacy there. It is eaten raw, roasted or At in a cake. Sometimes the natives fry out the fat, which is considered the most delicious relish in the country.

In South Carolina, says M. Daguin, the natives hunt the chrysalises of your these insects eagerly. The termite, commonly known as the white ant, is cooked and eaten with joy by the people of Guiana. This is the most destructive of all the ants. It is not, strictly speaking, an ant. Maj. Serpa Pinto records the love of certain outh African tribes for ants as a diet. Sir Samuel Baker, governor of Equatorial Africa, mentions that he tried fried white ants and found them very Grasshoppers, sacred to the ancient nuses, have long been a favorite food. Aristotle tells us that the Greeks ate many varieties of grasshoppers.

Prince Henry of Orleans relates that along the banks of the Mekong river, in Siam, young women hunt water grasshoppers, which they afterward sell in the market.

Locasts are as much relised as grasshoppers. The plague of locusts mentioned in the Bible doubtless consists of edible insects, but there were more of them than the Egyptians could digest at one time.

The Arabs of the region where the children of Israel tarried so long still gorge themselves with locusts. Diodorus Siculus informs us that the Ethiopians pot them and preserve their ocusts with saltpeire.

Many species of files of the same family as our common house fly are eater. David Livingstone says that the people along the Congo make cakes out of small flies. They tasted to him like caviar.

The Filipinos eat water beetles and worms, not to mention bats, which appen not to be insects.

Has a Ten-Foot Bed. Miss Ella Ewing, the Missouri giant-ess, has erected a house for herself in Govin, a town in that state. The doors in her home are ten feet high, and the ceilings 15 feet. Her height years, but has a population of but is eight feet four inches, and she sleeps on a bed ten feet long.
